PRE-PROPOSAL CONFERENCE MINUTES

Annexure A

Sr.	Queries	Responses
1.	Is it permissible for valuation firms to participate in multiple rounds and review exercise?	Yes, interested firms can participate in the bidding process for any one or all rounds of valuation as well as review exercise. After completion of technical evaluation, financial proposals of technically qualified firms will be opened separately for each round and review exercise. In case, a technically qualified firm is declared as lowest quoted/most advantageous in one round, its financial proposals for other rounds and review exercise, if any, will be returned unopened as four distinct valuation firms are required to be selected for independent valuation of the said property.
2.	Please share further details of property to be valuated e.g. covered area, flooring, elevation etc.	Property address and total area is already mentioned in Section VI- Terms of Reference (Page 39 of the RFP document), which is sufficient for submission of technical and financial proposals. Additional details regarding the property will be provided to the selected valuation firms to determine valuation of the property.
3.	What is the purpose of conducting procurement through three rounds and review exercise?	As per business need, three separate firms are required to conduct valuation of property independently which cannot be done via single procurement drill as per the PPR-2004 framework. Therefore, to meet this requirement the procurement is being carried out in various round resulting in selection of lowest quoted/most advantageous valuation firm as outcome of each round and review exercise.
4.	What is the purpose of review exercise if Reserve Price of the Property will be determined based on the average of Property value assessed by three (03) valuators?	Reserve Price of the Property will be determined based on the average of Property value assessed by three (03) valuators. However, in case of an outlier value among the valuation of the three valuators, the same would be resolved through review exercise based on the fourth valuation. In case there isn't any outlier in the valuation done by three valuators, the valuation activity required through review exercise will not be conducted.
